For the first time: a chance to see these prize-winning 1983-2007 films collected on DVD and BluRay.

FIVE ANIMATED FILMS written & directed by Dennis Tupicoff

CHAINSAW (2007) 25:00
Frank and Ava Gardner "star" in a chainsaw safety film, and love the rodeo. But now, ten years later...
Romance is like a chainsaw: a very dangerous beast indeed.

"a beautiful and affecting animated film that weaves... disparate tales into a film about love, betrayal and man's command of nature."
Clare Morgan (Sydney Morning Herald)

INTO THE DARK (2001) 6:00
The mind of a dying man drifts back to the evenings of his childhood.

"a moving, intelligent film that unites life and mortality, man and boy, and, most powerfully, father and son."
Chris Robinson - Unsung Heroes of Animation

HIS MOTHER'S VOICE (1997) 14:30
A mother describes how she found out that her son was shot dead. Using an ABC radio interview, this animated film tells its tragic story from two points of view.

"an extraordinarily powerful piece of filmmaking."
Bill Nichols - Introduction to Documentary

THE DARRA DOGS (1993) 10:00
A collection of warm and disturbing memories from the filmmaker's childhood experience with neighbourhood dogs.

"a wonderful animated short... tough and haunting in ways not easily described."
Vincent Canby (New York Times)

DANCE OF DEATH (1983) 8:30
An animated satire on television violence, set in a world where the skeletal Don Death runs a popular variety show called "Dance of Death". One night little Sally and her parents get more than they bargained for.

"an uncommon example of black humour well-supported by good taste."
Giannalberto Bendazzi - Cartoons
